

Re: Shader.js license Patrick Martin to:

Harald Reingruber 06.09.2014 21:26 Hide Details

From: Patrick Martin
To: Harald Reingruber

History: This message has been replied to.

Hello Harald,

I give you permission to change the licence of your fork to LGPL. I've made a few changes that I haven't published yet so you might want to check my repo for updates in a few days.

Sincerely, Patrick Martin

On Mon, Sep 1, 2014 at 2:30 AM, Harald Reingruber < > wrote: Hi Patrick, shader.js looks very handy, and I was considering using it in one of our products. Unfortunately (for me), I found out that you've published shader.js under the GPL license, which prevents me from integrating the library into our product because of our company's open source policy.

Is there any chance you could imagine changing the license to one with a weaker copyleft (e.g. LGPL, etc.)?

Or alternatively grating me to change the license for the shader.js fork on my Github space (https://github.com/haraldreingruber/Shader.js)?

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Kind Regards,

Harald Reingruber | Agfa HealthCare